THURSDAY, FEB. 25. 1897.

The winter of 1896-7 will long live in the memory of South Dakota residents as one of snow blockades and snow shoveling. It has been and is now a winter that is not very likely to be duplicated again in the next ten years," says the Mitchell, S. D., Capital. We on the contrary have enjoyed a very mild winter, not a great deal of rain, and very little freezing weather. But if the Northwest has been blockaded with snow, people who come from there say it means a full harvest next summer. Hence, if the heavy snow appears to be a curse now, it will really turn out to have been a blessing later on.

PRESIDENT SMITH, of the Louisville & Nashville R. R., has sent out a pamphlet on "Ticket Brokerage" or "Scalping," which is a plain, honest statement against an existing evil. We are very desirous that the bill relating to the matter should go through as we consider the railroads should have some control of their own property as represented by receipts for money paid for transportation. At any rate it is too surreptitious a business to suit us.

THE Centennial Exposition so far as we know is getting on well. The American is still keeping tally as to the number of days before it begins. As far as we are concerned we have never had a line or a word from the Bureau of Publicity. All we know about it we have gained mainly from papers published in other States, but we believe under Maj. Thomas management it will be a success.

MAKE every bit of your land useful. Clean out the corners of your fences and compel every foot of land that you possess to render an account to you in produce this summer and fall. The hard times are not over yet, so plant, plant, plant, anything and everything. What does not suit you will suit some one else.

We note that Paul Wright is now editor and proprietor of the Bryson City Times. Mr. Pender's valedictory was unique to say the least. Mr. Wright's exultatory was of a more cheerful character, and we hope he will make a success of the Bryson City Times.

We are tired of the word "constitutional" in legislative matters. It is a very bugbear anyone who opposes a measure always starts out with doubting its "constitutionality." Out on such trash let us have a constitution somebody understands:

A Turkey Yarn.

The following story was told the other day at Davidson's store, but we will not vouch for its truth. The proverbial grain of salt will have to be very plentifully sprinkled over it.—in fact it seems to us that it will take several grains of the saline article. It appears that a mighty hunter while prowling through the forest in search of something to blaze away at, saw a turkey—a monstrous gobbler—perched upon a log, which log was just across a little stream. The heart of the hunter beat so loudly and thumped so hard against his ribs at this discovery, that he was very much alarmed lest it should disturb the regal bird. Without further ado he raised his trusty fowling-piece to his shoulder and fired, and plunging precipitately through the smoke, and the river, likewise, in the direction of his target, he found not one turkey, but five quivering in their death throes, pierced through the heads and held together by his ram rod which he had neglected to remove from the barrel of his weapon. The first turkey was so large that it had concealed the others, which were sitting in a direct line behind it. With joy unbounded the hunter staggered homeward with his prizes, and after eating those five turkeys has lived to tell the tale.
